

Jelena Maletić, PhD

Research title: Research Associate

Position: Associate in the Department of epizootiology and health care of poultry and birds

Affiliation: Scientific Institute of Veterinary Medicine of Serbia – Belgrade, Serbia

Occupation field: Poultry Diseases, Pathology, Biosecurity

Short biography: Dr Jelena Maletić is a research associate at the Scientific Institute of Veterinary Medicine of Serbia, specializing in poultry and wild bird diseases. Her expertise includes pathology, genotoxicology, microbiology with immunology, and biosecurity. She focuses on infectious diseases of bacterial, viral, fungal, and parasitic origin, and the implementation of biosecurity and welfare measures in poultry production. Dr Maletić has authored over 90 scientific publications and actively participates in national and international research projects, including multiple COST Actions. She has completed advanced training with institutions such as FAO, Friedrich-Loeffler Institute, Biocheck. Ugent, and Royal GD.