

Zorana Kovačević, PhD

Research title: Associate professor

Position: Head of the Career Development Center

Affiliation: University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Agriculture, Department of Veterinary Medicine –
Novi Sad, Serbia

Occupation field: Pharmacology and Toxicology

Short biography: Dr. Zorana Kovačević is a veterinary pharmacologist and toxicologist, currently serving as the Head of the Career Development Center at the Faculty of Agriculture, University of Novi Sad. She leads several research projects focused on antimicrobial stewardship, drug residues, and alternatives to antibiotics in livestock production. Her work bridges scientific research and practical application, with a strong emphasis on One Health principles. She has authored numerous scientific papers and actively participates in national and international initiatives addressing antimicrobial resistance and sustainable animal production. Dr. Kovačević is also involved in academic training, mentoring students, and coordinating the Career Development Center at her faculty.